

2020 SIAD INTERNATIONAL PRIZE FOR INNOVATION IN THE USE OF TECHNICAL GASES IN THE VINICULTURE AND OENOLOGY SECTOR

The SIAD International Prize is aimed at recognizing the best research projects that involve the use of technical gases (such as nitrogen, carbon dioxide, argon, oxygen) from the vineyard to the winery, and that allow an improvement in the quality of wines and production processes.

The SIAD International Prize is assigned to an individual candidate or to a group presenting a research project that is at an advanced stage of completion or potentially feasible in the year following the prize.
